STANLEY CALLS SPECIAL SESSION

Kentucky Legislature to Meet Feb.
14 and Limited to Revenue and Taxation Bills.

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 13. — (Special.) Responding to a demand for tax reform that already has resulted in a constitutional amendment for the classification of property in Kentucky, Governor A. O. Stanley tonight issued a call for a special session of the Kentucky general assembly, to convene Wednesday, Feb. 14.

The governor stipulates that the session is to be for the "sole purpose of considering the subject of revenue and taxation."

The coming session will be the first special assembly in twelve years.

Gov. W. O. Bradley called one to elect a United States senator and Gov. J. C. W. Beckham called sessions twice, in 1909 to pass an election law and in 1905 to locate the new capitol. Neither Gov. A. E. Wilson nor Gov. J. B. McCreary, whose terms intervened, called a special session.

The session originally is limited to six days, which means Saturday and Sunday are closed.

The senate and house employees, clerks, sergeant-at-arms, doorkeepers, pages, and janitors elected at the 1916 session will hold their places through the special session.

With only the question before them of revenue and taxation measures, which must originate in the house and pass that body first, the senators will have ample time to acquaint themselves with all the details of proposed legislation by listening to the debates in the house and the employees will enjoy a session of comparative ease until the house begins sending bills to the other end of the capitol.

THINKS FINE HAS GIVEN UP HOPE FOR FIELD VICTORY

British People Less Worried Than Those of Neutral Nations.

London, Feb. 12. — Twenty-four hours' reflection over Germany's latest threat appears to have left the British public less worried than appears to be the case of public mind in most neutral countries. Two points of the issue stand out clearly in all public opinion. First, that the German declaration of war is a bluff, and second, that having shown a bluff, Germany is in a position to make a bluff.

Wilson Invites Other Neutrals To Join in Diplomatic Severance.

Washington, Feb. 14.—President Wilson's instructions to American diplomats to invite the other neutral nations to join with the United States in the severance of diplomatic relations with Germany follow:

"You will immediately notify the Government to which you are accredited that the United States, because of the German Government's recent announcement of its intention to renew unrestricted submarine warfare, has no choice but to follow the course laid down in its note of April 18, 1916 (the Sussex note).

"It has, therefore, recalled the American Ambassador from Berlin and has delivered his passport to the German Ambassador to the United States.

"Say also that the President is reluctant to believe Germany actually will carry out her threat against neutral commerce, but if it be done the President will ask Congress to authorize use of the national power to protect American citizens engaged in their peaceful and lawful errands in the seas.

"The course taken is, in the President's view, entirely in conformity with the principles he enunciated in his address to the Senate January 12, 1915. (The address proposing a world league for peace.)

"He believes it will make for the peace of the world if other neutral Powers can find it possible to take similar action.

"Report fully and immediately the reception of this announcement and upon the suggestion as to similar action."

POULTRY

LISTEN FOR CACKLE OF HEN
Feed Fowls in Accordance With Demands of Nature as Propounded by Poultry Experts.

Listen for the cackle of your hen. It has a money value to you. The winter season is approaching, when the price of eggs will advance and the cackle will become of even greater significance to you.

Plan for the cackle, feed the hens in accordance with the demands of nature as propounded by the experts who have spent their lives in the work.

If the cackle is not heard with sufficient frequency ask yourself why. Dig down and study the subject for the more you study the fatter the hen will cackle, and cackling means more eggs and a bigger bank account.

It is the law of nature that a hen should lay, and cackle. She should lay often and do much cackling, for dual, too, is nature's law.

But she will not lay unless she receives proper food and care, and therefore the wisdom of the man who thinks before he acts.

Get hold of some good literature, read up on the subject of egg production, apply the knowledge you thus obtain, and in the end you will learn to experience a keen delight in every cackle of your hens.

Your hen wants to cackle—she will cackle if you give her a chance. And there's money in the cackle of a hen.

BEST TURKEYS FOR BREEDING

Error for Farmer to Feed Stock Fowls With Those Intended for the Holiday Market.

It is a great mistake for the farmer to feed his stock turkeys with those intended for the holiday markets, yet so many of them do. It is the worst thing in the world to do. Before the turkeys are made ready for market make choice of the turkeys you expect to keep over for breeding purposes and choose your very best. Place these somewhere away from the rest, and while you keep them in fine condition by feeding corn, wheat and oats, the latter, if boiled, forming a healthy ration for turkeys do not seek to

BEST CHICKENS FOR CAPONS

Fowls Hatched in May and June Are Favored—Cockerels Are Valuable as Broilers.

Chickens hatched in May and June are better for capons, as the earlier cockerels are worth too much as broilers from two to four pounds to caponize and hold over until the capon year. Let opens up which is from about the middle of January until about the middle of March. At the age of eight or nine months, or from later on, the cockerels are sold. All would weigh seven to twelve pounds. The last few years have capons have sold from 15 to 20 pounds per pound and the rooster from 10 to 15 pounds.

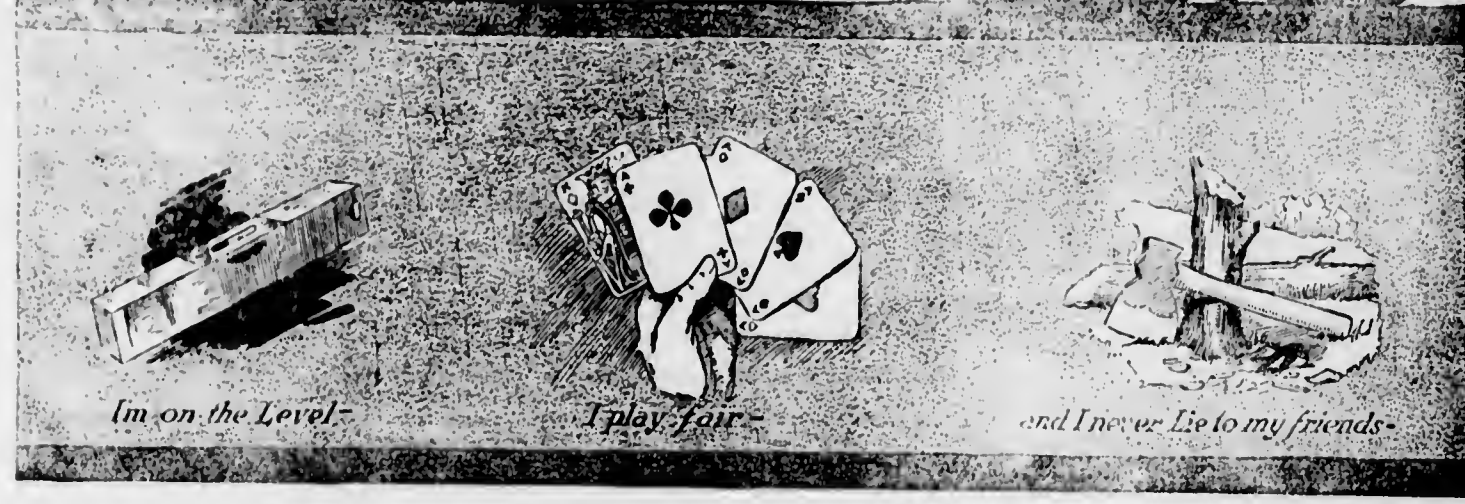

Another reason why a cockerel is the capon for with a cockerel, he will mature, a lot of little chicks, and so on. As their food, mother would. A cockerel is a good bird to see. He has also been made to sit with good results by some poultrymen.

CREATION OF FERTILE EGGS

One Male to Ten or Fifteen Hens Is Average Ratio With Small Breeds, Such as Leghorns.

The following ratio of male to females may be expected to produce fertile eggs under average conditions: Small breeds, such as Leghorns, one male to 10 or 15 females; medium-size breeds, such as Plymouth Rock and Rhode Island Red, one male to 8 or 10 females; and heavy breeds, like Brahma, one male to six or eight females. The activity of a single male is of course a governing factor.

A Southern Gentleman Is Popular Everywhere

Just think this over a minute.—How many friends have you? Not the fellows who borrow from you—I mean the chaps who will fight for you! Fellows who believe in you—who stick by you through thick and thin. You can count them on one hand, can't you? But listen to this.—I have several million down South here.

And why? Because I've been on the level.

I've played fair. I've never lied to my friends, nor cheated them, nor double-crossed them, nor held out on them.

They know me by my right name—SOVEREIGN. A true gentleman of the South, born and bred of the real Southern stock. I mingle the blood of Virginia and Carolina—the best in the world—the choicest, sweetest, ripest, smoothest tobacco you ever smoked.

You Folks of the South KNOW Good blood!
You Folks of the South KNOW Good tobacco!

I have friends down South, and I keep them—because quality does tell. And it means a whole lot when I say:

The Livingston Enterprise has this in say of our old friend James Cox, a former Salem boy.

"J. P. Cox, of Carrsville, advised his son, that two cars by sending his clerk this week. In his letter he mentioned that he had shipped several cars of sugar and have a lot of lead for shipment since I saw the Editor C. M. Miller, of Pittsburg, P., and C. P. Keesling of New York, and it is interesting to know that they are interested with me. Now is the time for the people of Livingston and Crittenden counties to encourage capital and seeking investments here for our mines are richest in the world."

FOR DELICACY OF FLAVOR

It is called the Same Day They Are Gathered.

The national food producers have met this condition by establishing canning factories in the fruit regions. The fruit is gathered when just the proper degree of ripeness is reached, and in this way the very best flavor of the fruit is secured and retained for the customer.

The new canning factories reduce the cost of the fruit by the use of the glass can, and in addition the advantage of packing the fruit from the tree, thus retaining its original color. In the old days, when the housewife raised her own fruit the cost of production was low and she could pick and can her fruit the same day. At that time she had plenty of help in the house, also, so that the only items she calculated in the cost were cans and sugar.

As time went on it became necessary to buy the fruit, and since help had become scarce, it was necessary for the housewife to do all the work herself. Then canning became a burden and an expensive too great for the housewife to bear. At this point, the national food producers took up the work. With their modern methods, sanitary tools, and factories located in the fruit producing centers, no wonder they can better canning than "mother," could with her lack of conveniences and many duties.

One need only compare the flavor of a canned pineapple put up in one of these factories located in Hawaii with the flavor of a so-called "fresh" pineapple bought in a middle west market to be convinced of the superiority of the canned product. The "fresh" pineapple of commerce is taken from its native soil while underripe and its flavor is consequently undeveloped. The moisture evaporates more or less and the fruit becomes "woody." The rich flavor of the just ripe fruit can never be imitated nor regained once it is lost. The only sure way to have this is to buy the fruit that had been canned in the very heart of the fruit growing country.

DOGS BURIED A WEEK DIG TO FREEDOM

Two Pets Are Entombed While Pursuing a Rabbit Into Embankment.

Two dogs, a male and a female, were entombed in a concrete wall while pursuing a rabbit into an embankment. The dogs were buried a week ago and have not yet been found.

Dug Themselves Out.

The dogs were given up for dead. Six days later the boys were astonished to see one of the dogs appear at home, weak and thin, but alive. The other dog was found a few days later, also alive but very weak.

MAD BULL SPREADS PANIC

Killed on Pennsylvania Farm by Neighbors After Furious Battle of an Hour.

Milton, Pa.—After an hour's battle with an infuriated bull on the farm of James Best, near here, the animal was killed.

A young Jersey had been tied up in the barn and was being fattened for market. Best's dog attacked it and, becoming infuriated, the young bull broke his chain and rushed down the barn doors.

Once outside, the bull attacked and threw James Foster, aged four, to the ground, but the child was unhurt. His mother, when the dog again attacked the bull's attention, seized the child and running into the house just as the beast charged again.

Attracted by the noise, Best and his son, Merrill, hastened from a nearby field. The bull attacked young Best and tossed him over the barnyard fence. James Best got a pitchfork and smacked the bull on the head, but it only shook them off and charged the older Best around and around an apple tree.

Neighbors, summoned by Mrs. Best by telephone, responded in an automobile and the bull charged the machine, battering its head against the radiator. Angus Fairchild fired at the animal from the car and killed it.

THIS DONKEY BRINGS GRIEF

Declared by Authorities to Be Public Nuisance Because of His Draying.

Vernonville, S. D.—An apparently inoffensive donkey has during the last few days been the source of considerable friction in this city and as a last resort the city council held a meeting and took action.

The draying of the donkey kept many people awake at night, and after they had lost so much sleep that they lost their tempers those affected sent a petition to the city council asking that the donkey be eliminated. The city council deliberated over the matter for some time, and then took a vote, which proved that the council was evenly divided on the question as to whether the donkey was a nuisance or not.

Mayor Lyons, to break the deadlock, cast the deciding ballot which declared the donkey a public nuisance, and the council now has demanded of the owner, C. H. Grange, that the offending donkey be evicted from Vernonville and not permitted to step foot within the city limits.

CUPID BUTTS IN IN LAW OFFICE

Kansas City Attorney Proposes to His Stenographer Through a Dictaphone.

HIS NERVE FAILED HIM

Fair Object of Affections Copied Love Message in Proper Form, Then Replied as Befitted Business in Hand.

Kansas City.—One of the most striking examples of Cupid's butting into business affairs has just come to light here. John J. Tecumseh, a prominent lawyer, and his stenographer, Miss Ethel Mary Wapello, had spent a very busy day. The attorney had been seeing clients in the front office and the stenographer had been making three copies of a very long and a very dry brief, and transcribing the evidence in a very long and a very dry case.

Five o'clock came, which should have been quitting time, but the end was not yet. Ethel Mary wearily drew her chair over to the dictaphone, adjusted the headpiece and prepared to type a letter Mr. Tecumseh had dictated the night before.

A Surprise From the Boss.

After the preliminary buzzing of the blank record there came to Ethel Mary's ears strange sounds. Instead of the usual "Mr. L. G. Blank, 23 Market street, Chicago, Ill., Dear sir," the unusual voice of her employer was heard, halting, faltering. "Miss Wapello—Ethel," it said, "there is something I have wanted to say to you for a long time—something that I could not bring myself to tell you in person—something I cannot adequately phrase now. I will be as brief as possible. I love you—I have loved you for two years—ever since you came to me."

"I appreciate fully your services as a stenographer (strike that out, please)—what I mean is that I want you to resign from this job and become my wife. You and I are not as young as we used to be. Don't you think?—can't you care just a little?—oh, strike it, strike it—all except that I love you."

Reply Prompt and to the Point.

Next morning Mr. Tecumseh found two copies of the message on his desk, another little note, and no stenographer. The note said: "Dear Mr. Tecumseh—John, I hereby resign from my position as stenographer in your firm. I have enjoyed my work with you, but feel that I should accept a better place. I am about to become the wife of the best man in the world. Come up this evening and we'll talk it over. Yours truly—I mean lovingly—Ethel Mary."

SNAKE IN A STREET CAR

Crawling Among the Feet of Passengers in Louisville Makes Them Scamper.

Louisville, Ky.—Crawling among the feet of passengers on a Fourth street car, coming in from Jacob Park place the other day, a snake which had presumably been killed by a picnic party and was being brought to the city as a souvenir of a merry outing made itself unpopular with the dozen or more women and children, and enjoyed the freedom of the floor until Dr. H. E. Meekling, who had helped to "kill" it in the first place, put his head on its head and "killed" it again. He then threw it off the car by the tail.

"There were about ten young women in our party," said Doctor Meekling, "and they discovered the snake near a path in the park."

"It was about 3½ feet long and black, with yellow and white spots. I had heard of sprawling vipers, and from the way it coiled and seemingly spread its head for striking I believed it to be one of that species."
